INLAND WATERWAYS (61 pp; German; [redacted])

25X1X

These photostat copies contain information on inland ports and their loading and unloading quays and equipment. The area covered is that of the Havelitz-Elbe waterway, the Stear Canal, the Stear River, Ziegel Lake, and Lake Scherwin.

The first four pages are an index of the items which follow, listed in consecutive numerical order, by waterway, kilometer point, right or left bank, type of installation, and name of industrial enterprise or locality.

The following 45 pages list the items (ports) mentioned in the index and give detailed information such as water level, type of quay, transshipping capacity, railroad connection, storage facilities, loading and unloading installations, number of workers employed, and 1949/50 financial status.

Fourteen photostats are segments of a map or maps depicting the area involved, with keys to bridges, weirs, and locks, and also including information on the organization of the river administration and its personnel.
